CIA Official
To Visit H-SU

William B. Wood, Southwest personnel representative of the Central Intelligence Agency, will be on the Hardin-Simmons University campus November 16, to interview personnel interested in a career in intelligence.

Under the direction of the National Security Council, the CIA correlates and evaluates all intelligence pertaining to American security, as well as performs any special function pertaining to national interests as required by the National Security Council. The CIA employs personnel trained in liberal arts, science, engineering and business administration. Applicants should have leadership potential, aptitude for foreign language study, and a willingness to serve their country without public recognition.

Additionally, a candidate must be able to pass a thorough medical examination, must have been a citizen of the United States for at least five years, and should be willing to serve either in Washington, D. C., or overseas. Starting salaries range from $6,000 through $11,000. Initial salaries for stenographic workers range from $4,480 through $5,000.

Persons interested in discussing career opportunities with Wood may contact Claude Hicks, Director of Placement, at H-SU, in the Student Center.
